

Rocky Mountain Sustainable Living Association

The Rocky Mountain Sustainable Living Association's mission is to educate people and communities in the Rocky Mountain region to make healthy sustainable choices. RMSLA has become well known for its annual educational event, the Sustainable Living Fair, the largest event of its kind in the Rocky Mountain region. Last year's Fair drew 12,202 attendees from across the country and featured 250 exhibitors, 100 workshops, and hands-on demonstrations. Join us on September 18 & 19, 2010 for the 11th annual Sustainable Living Fair in Fort Collins, Colorado.

RMSLA also offers a series of Year-Round Workshops that help educate people about sustainable living practices, renewable energy systems, sustainable & local agriculture, using backyard gardens more productively, and adopting methods for reducing carbon footprints.

The RMSLA is a solution driven organization with the proven ability to move people towards powerful and profound choices in an effort to stave off complacency about environmental and social issues affecting our world. Since the inception of RMSLA's educational programs in 2000, more than 65,000 people have moved towards a more sustainable lifestyle.

The Rocky Mountain Sustainable Living Association has made tangible changes in the lives of thousands of citizens by providing practical options for everyday living. Our primary role is education. For the past decade the Sustainable Living Fair has been a national destination point for sustainable education and information. At this event people learn how to live more in balance with nature by conserving natural resources and leaving less of an impact on the earth. By providing access to the latest technology, products and information attendees are able to embrace change and seize opportunities they never knew existed.

As an educational non-profit organization, RMSLA appeals to all of us as users of the earth's natural resources. RMSLA targets those interested in, curious about, or deeply involved in sustainable living options.

A sustainable lifestyle ensures that social, environmental and economic systems are viable and offer a healthy and meaningful life for our citizens. That is the foundation on which RMSLA has built its mission and this is the work that your membership supports.
